17 shot in weekend horror

NEW YORK. Seventeen people were shot this weekend and three others stabbed by Sunday morning, cops said. One teen was fatally shot in the East Village. Keith Salgado, 17, was wounded near Avenue C and 12th Street at around 2 a.m. on Sunday. He died at the hospital a few hours later. Another man was shot in the head on Franklin Avenue in the Bronx early Sunday morning. METRO/EAE

Bloomberg complains of protest

NEW YORK. Brookfield Properties made the decision at midnight Thursday to call off the planned cleaning of Zuccotti Park, after Mayor Michael Bloomberg said the company received "threatening" calls from elected officials. According to Capital New York, Brookfield's CEO "got lots of calls, from many elected officials, threatening them," said Bloomberg, declining to identify the elected officials who made the calls. The mayor also said the longer the protest continues, the worse it will be for the city's economy. METRO/CB

LONG ISLAND. A group of teens ransacked an Amityville drug store and walked away with $60 worth of pilfered prophylactics and hair conditioner, according to the New York Post. The four juveniles waltzed into the CVS at around 7 p.m., grabbed the goodies, and made their getaway by bike. METRO/EAE

Self-appointed spy of Occupy Wall Street

He's been secretly monitoring Occupy Wall Street and reporting their activities to NYPD, FBI ◐ Except now he's getting death threats, he says

Like thousands of New Yorkers, Brooklynite Thomas Ryan has been attending Occupy Wall Street general assemblies for weeks.

Only he's no protester — he's a plainclothes private security consultant "monitoring" the group's activities.

"The movement is so big, you don't know what they want to do and what they're capable of," said Ryan, who said he was initially curious about the protest. "Everyone has a different agenda."

He told Metro that he's become so concerned Occupy Wall Street poses a danger to New Yorkers, he's even sent their e-mails to the FBI and the NYPD.

"They keep saying they want their own Tahrir Square — but look what happened there," he said. "People died."

In one e-mail, he sent an NYPD detective a tip that protesters planned to crash a press conference where Police Commissioner Raymond Kelly was meant to speak.

"I am for a peaceful protest, not one that says it's peaceful and people get hurt."
TOM RYAN

Another time he sent the FBI a tip that protesters planned to reach out to union leaders to increase their numbers.

The FBI declined to comment on Ryan, but one source did point out that all of Ryan's "tips" came from publicly available information.

Nonetheless, the Occupiers have labeled Ryan a snitch and a spy. Occupy Wall Street spokesman Patrick Bruner called Ryan's actions "disingenuous and unproductive."

Death threats go both ways

NEW YORK. Death threats abound on both sides of the debate. Since Tom Ryan chronicled his findings earlier this week on Andrew Breitbart's BigGovernment.com, he said he has received hundreds of death threats.

One man wrote to him, "Let me slit your throat you corporate whore ... I would slaughter your family as well if given the chance."

And he's not the only one getting threats. Occupy Wall Street spokesman Patrick Bruner said he's been getting threats from conservatives who oppose the protest. "Just because I get a threat from a conservative, doesn't mean it's representative of that party," he said. METRO/EAE

Park51 mosque faces eviction after Con Ed rent hike

This mosque's holding on by a wing and a prayer.

Park51, the controversial community center and mosque two blocks from Ground Zero, is having landlord troubles to the tune of nearly $2 million dollars of disputed back rent.

Park51 owns the eastern half of the property at 47-51 Park Place, but Con Ed owns the western half and leases it to Park51.

Owners of the Islamic center want both buildings so they can knock them down and build a much larger community center.

But Con Ed threw a wrench in their plans in August when they upped the rent from $2,750 a month to $47,437 a month, according to the New York Post.

$1.7M
Con Ed wants nearly $2 million in back rent from the owners of the Park51 community center/mosque after the firm re-appraised the property value.

The massive rent hike is retroactive to 2008, when the two parties first negotiated the lease terms. Con Ed and Park51 are at odds over the appraisal of the market value of the property.

When Park51 failed to pay the $1.7 million by Oct. 4, Con Ed threatened to evict them.

Sharif El-Gamal, the developer of the site, argues that Con Ed's numbers are unfounded — as is its appraisal of the property's value.

The two parties are set to duke it out in court on Nov. 17.

MANHATTAN. The mother of an 18-year-old boy found dead Friday night has been charged in his killing, according to police. Sean Hines' body was discovered by his stepfather in their apartment on West 92nd Street just before 11 p.m. The teen had been stabbed to death, according to police. His stepfather called 911, according to the New York Daily News, but when cops showed up Hines' mother, Yvonne Hines, answered their knock holding a bloody sponge. She was arrested and charged with manslaughter. The dead boy and his mother, 52, had a history of violence, and neighbors reportedly often heard the two fighting. METRO/CB

Isolation in prison akin to torture: Group

- Groups meet at UN to decry jailhouse punishment
- Want fewer prisoners put in solitary confinement

GETTY IMAGES

▶ More than 800 inmates are in solitary confinement in New York City's jails, such as Rikers.

It's a technique used daily in New York prisons, and yet some consider it torture. Tomorrow, religious and human rights groups will attend a panel at the United Nations to discuss prolonged solitary confinement in jails nationwide, and in New York state.

Rev. Richard Killmer, director of the National Religious Campaign Against Torture, said isolating inmates for 30 days or more is a brutal practice that psychologically damages prisoners. And it's one that is used too often.

"We're really concerned about what we consider the overuse of isolation."
SCARLET KIM, NYCLU

"Everybody knows solitary confinement is dangerous, and yet it's used anyhow," said Killmer. "The harm that is caused is pretty severe."

In New York, about 5,000 prisoners are in isolation across the state at any given time, estimated Scarlet Kim at the New York Civil Liberties Union. A New York state Department of Corrections spokesman put that number slightly lower, at 4,000.

In New York City jails, about 800 inmates out of 12,700 were in solitary confinement as of Friday.

Tales from inside

Michael Cole, 29, did time in a Maine prison for car theft, where he was placed in solitary confinement for two years, he said.

▶ The lack of human contact took a toll: "It's definitely changed me. After I got out, I tend to be very cold. Pretty much the only emotion I have is anger. I'm either happy or I'm angry."

Any time a prisoner is isolated in their cell for 23 hours a day is considered solitary confinement. Prisoners in solitary get a daily break for exercise, said city Department of Corrections spokeswoman Sharman Stein, and jails allow breaks for religious services and meetings with lawyers, too.

But most spend all their other time alone and take their meals alone. Suicides are five times more likely among prisoners in solitary confinement, according to the Poughkeepsie Journal.

Critics also say solitary is used to punish relatively minor offenses: Smoking pot, for example, can land a prisoner in solitary for days, said Kim.

"The general idea is that these prisoners are the worst of the worst, but that's not always the case," Kim said.

ASPCA

NEW YORK. Hi! My name is Ritchie and I'm a 4-year-old Yorkie mix looking for a new family. I'm very friendly and outgoing, and love to meet new friends to play with me.

People say I'm pretty smart, and I already know how to sit on command. Teaching me new tricks and manners should be pretty easy, especially if you give me some tastes of my favorite treats. When we go out for walks, I'm a good boy and stay right by your side.

I can be energetic, so I'll need a bit of running and exercise every day to keep me happy. Other dogs can be fun to play with, but sometimes I can get too excited and play a little rough.

I'm the perfect dog for an inexperienced or first-time owner, and should be okay going to a home with children over the age of 6.

Bring him home!

Stop by the ASPCA Adoption Center and give Ritchie a home.

NYPD seeks sex assault vics

Police commissioner says cops need to know about crimes in order to take dangerous men off the streets

After a spate of sexual attacks reported over the weekend, including an alleged rape in Queens, NYPD Commissioner Ray Kelly is now urging more victims citywide to come forward.

"People perhaps are ... not reporting," said Kelly over the weekend. But, he added, police can only stop the sex assaults if they know "where they happen, when they happen."

As many as 20 different women have reported being groped throughout Brooklyn, according to police, in neighborhoods ranging from Park Slope to Bay Ridge.

Last week, police caught one man who they think may have been behind several of the gropings, but suspects in new sex attacks remain on the loose.

▶ The Jamaica rape suspect.

In Long Island City, police are looking for a man who they say has groped up to six women since Sept. 15. The man, described as Hispanic and in his 40s, targets women walking alone. He rides a black mountain bike up to his victims and then grabs either their breasts or their backsides before pedaling away, said police. He most recently groped a 24-year-old woman on Oct. 7 in Sunnyside.

Last Thursday, a 20-year-old woman was attacked while walking in Jamaica, Queens. A man threatened her with a box cutter and raped her, said police.

'Rage' goes global: Occupy worldwide

Protests begun in New York spread throughout Asia, Europe Violence troubles Italy, peaceful elsewhere

The global "Day of Rage" against the world's financial system won some limited sympathy from political and economic leaders yesterday after protests that were peaceful everywhere but Italy.

Cities from east Asia to Europe and North America saw rallies on Saturday denouncing capitalism, inequality and economic crisis, but riot police were busy only in Rome.

The city cleared up yesterday, a day after masked "Black Bloc" protesters torched cars, attacked banks and hurled rocks.

"They must be condemned by everyone without reservation," Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi said. Yet many Italians asked why police had managed to arrest only 12 of the violent demonstrators.

175 Chicago police arrested about 175 protesters in a downtown plaza where some had set up tents yesterday.

Lisbon and Madrid also saw tens of thousands march on Saturday. Spanish outrage has been fueled by multi-million-euro payouts for top staff at failed regional banks.

Other cities across the United States and Canada saw modestly sized and peaceful demonstrations and protesters gathered in their hundreds in Japan and across Southeast Asia.

THE WORD

Metro's Dorothy Robinson shares her take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

This weekend's celebrity movers and shakers

In today's column, we'll look at the celebrities moving toward one another, those moving farther apart and one who found his way out of the closet over the weekend.

On the up and up? Bradley Cooper and Jennifer Lopez. (Maybe!) The actor stepped out recently with a woman who looked a lot like the "American Idol" judge, though she was going to great lengths to shield herself from photographers, according to Us Weekly. A source close to the singer says it was in fact Lopez meeting up with the "Hangover" star, getting together again after having dinner last month. "After their date in New York, Bradley and Jennifer stayed in touch," the source says. "She does like his attention, and it makes her feel good that he seems so into her. She has a fun time with Bradley and he makes her laugh."

▶ Jennifer Lopez and Bradley Cooper chatted last year at the Tommy Hilfiger Spring 2011 show during Fashion Week. Were there sparks back then?

But while these two might be getting tight, it looks like Ashton Kutcher and Demi Moore are heading toward splitsville. A moving truck was seen pulling up to the couple's L.A. home late last week, according to Us Weekly. The moving company, Wetzel & Sons, would not divulge any information about the job. While it's unclear who may be vacating the premises, sources speculate Kutcher would be the one kicked to the curb. "Demi is humiliated," a source says. "She loves him, but can't forgive him for the embarrassment he has caused."

Meanwhile, although there is no gossip regarding who Zachary Quinto is or isn't dating, there is one thing for certain: He likes dating dudes.

In a New York interview, the "Star Trek" actor chatted about his role in the off-Broadway production of "Angels in America," saying, "As a gay man, it made me feel like there's still so much work to be done, and there's still so many things that need to be looked at and addressed."

And that, actors, is a great way to come out. No fanfare, no tabloid cover, just a straight-forward piece about your work. Mazel tov!

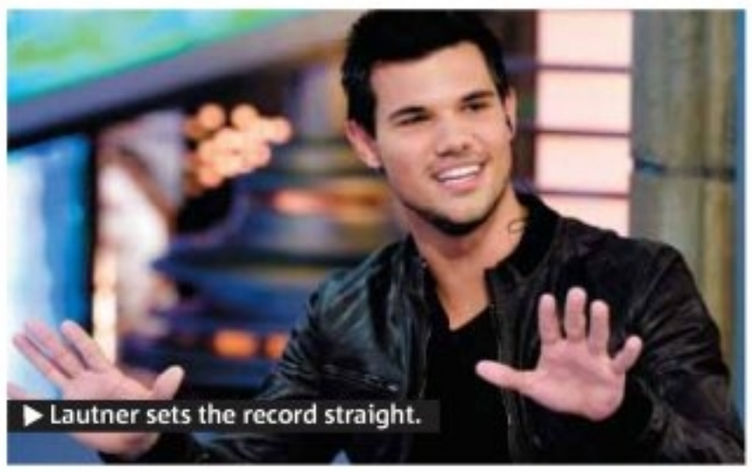
Talking points

Lautner likes ladies, OK?

Taylor Lautner is going on the record about his sexuality after being quizzed by the Australian edition of GQ about a recent night out with director Gus Van Sant and writer Dustin Lance Black, both of whom are openly gay. When asked if either of the men hit on him, Lautner said, "No, definitely not. I think they know I'm straight." The 19-year-old "Twilight" star said that the meeting was all business: "It's not a coincidence that there was a writer, a director and an actor at dinner."



▶ Lautner sets the record straight.

Chris Tucker forecloses

Chris Tucker may end up losing his Florida mansion, as he owes the bank more than $4 million on the foreclosed home — and that's on top of the $11.5 million lien the IRS placed on the home earlier this year for unpaid income taxes, according to Hollyscoop. Tucker, at least, is finding ways to joke about his situation. "That's the last time I let Wesley Snipes help me out with my taxes," Tucker quipped at a recent stand-up gig, according to the Miami New Times. He might not be laughing so much about the house's value: Tucker purchased it for $6 million, but the property is reportedly currently appraised at $1.6 million.

Downey: Forgive Mel!

Robert Downey Jr. wants the world to forgive Mel Gibson. While accepting an award from the American Cinematheque, the star took a moment to address Hollywood's treatment of the Oscar-winning director and actor, according to Us Weekly. "Unless you are without sin — and if you are, you are in the wrong f—ing industry — you should forgive him and let him work," Downey said. "There's nothing so much wrong with him. He's a good dude with a good heart."

'Real Steel' KOs the competition yet again

Boxing robot movie "Real Steel" won the domestic box office for the second straight weekend, edging out a remake of 1980s dance classic "Footloose."

"Real Steel" brought in about $16.3 million at U.S. and Canadian theaters, according to studio estimates released yesterday. The action movie starring Hugh Jackman landed slightly ahead of "Footloose," which brought in an estimated $16.1 million.

Third place went to horror movie "The Thing" with $8.7 million.

Song Therapy

'In the Dark'

by Dev

The coolest thing about this song, currently No. 1 on the Billboard dance chart, is probably how the main riff — almost always done by some synth-y sounding instrument in club music — actually sounds like a saxophone. It probably isn't an actual sax, but it is a spicy sound to hear that's unexpected. Credit for that goes to producers The Cataracs. You'll recognize Dev's voice from "Like a G6" by the Far East Movement from last year. In this song she sings about dancing in the dark and letting her hands do what they want, but the line you'll be singing the next morning a little too loudly is, "I've got a sex drive. Push to start," especially if you do have one of those newish cars that doesn't need a key to get it going. Regardless, this song is the key to get your night going. Where to hear: iTunes, Spotify

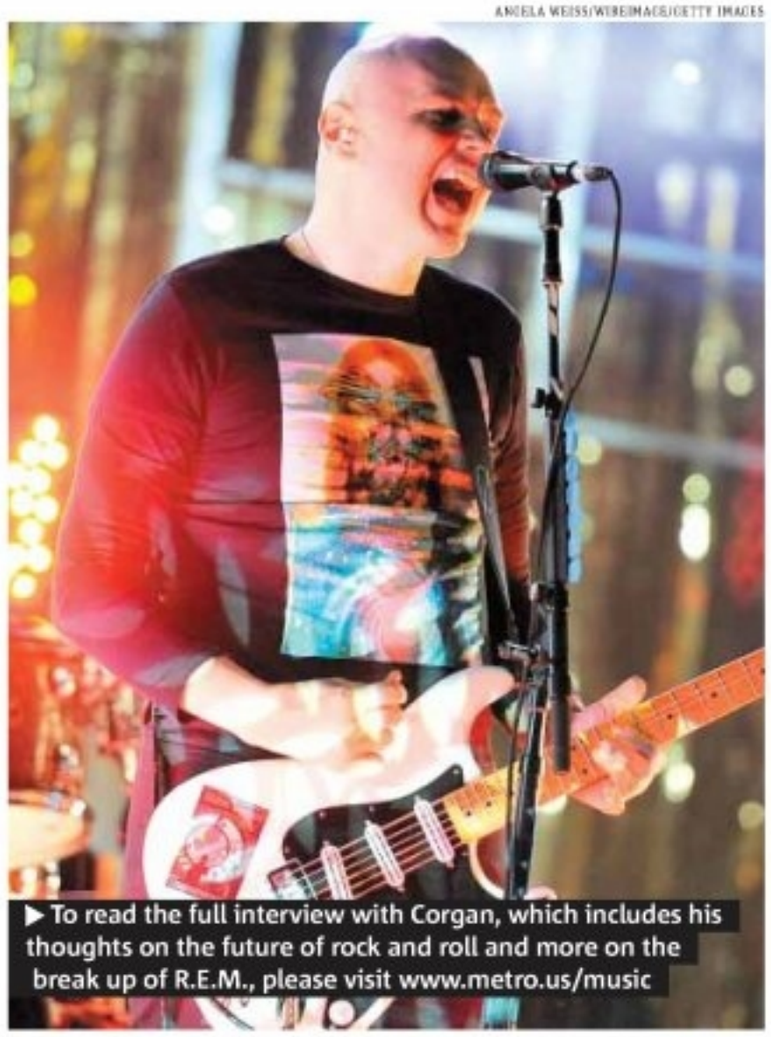
'Today is the greatest day I've ever known'

The Smashing Pumpkins' legendary frontman Billy Corgan discusses his new tour, R.E.M.'s break up and what happened to his estranged bandmates 'Nostalgia is the death of all art' Why and how he lives in the present

ANGELA WEISS/WIREIMAGE/GETTY IMAGES



▶ To read the full interview with Corgan, which includes his thoughts on the future of rock and roll and more on the break up of R.E.M., please visit www.metro.us/music

Billy Corgan is one of the titans of '90s alternative rock. He's a polarizing figure in some circles, having issued a few controversial remarks in the past regarding his ex-bandmates, with whom he no longer tours. But with a new set of musicians touring under the Smashing Pumpkins name, Corgan wants to bring the band into the present with his latest tour.

Does the music you write under the Smashing Pumpkins name differ from material you've written as Zwan or your self-titled work?

The whole idea with the Pumpkins originally was supposed to be an experimental excitement kind of thing, whereas away from the Pumpkins, I tend to write a little bit more traditional music. There's something about the way the band was formed as being in awe of rock 'n' roll but also wanting to destroy rock 'n' roll.

So, how does one destroy rock 'n' roll?

Maybe it's different now. But let's say 20 years ago, there was sort of an unwritten rule that you don't talk about how fake rock 'n' roll really was. ... The Pumpkins came along and were willing to poke holes in the indie alternative world, in the facetiousness of the whole thing.

Are there no taboos in rock 'n' roll anymore?

I think it's reasonable [to say] that it's been fully explored. That's not necessarily a bad thing. All art goes through that. ... In many ways, rock 'n' roll has become kitsch art. It's not dangerous anymore, as much as it used to be.

"We're in 2011, and this music is important because it still connects you to something today." CORGAN

Touring under the Smashing Pumpkins name, how do you decide which old songs to play?

I'm only talking about the past, but you'll play a new song that's a pretty good song and the audience applauds and then you play a mediocre old song and the audience acts like it's the greatest song they've ever heard. As an artist, you're standing there saying, "OK, that's not real. That's a memory-sensory reaction." ... It's about finding stuff that you can really feel strongly about, that you'll actually get the audience to feel what you're playing in that moment.

So it's about getting the order of things right?

No, it's like, look — I don't know how many songs that I've got that are like no-brainer songs that I should play. No matter how badly I play them, the audience is going to be like, "Yeaaaah!" My job is to put that song into a position that when I do play it ... they actually hear something different in the song because of the way it's been portrayed or where it is in the set. ... We're in 2011, and this music is important because it still connects you to something today — not 15 years ago when you were in the back of the car with Sally. Nostalgia is the death of all art.

Recently R.E.M. broke up. Some might think they broke up only so that they can do a reunion tour in five years.

Well, I think that is a completely reasonable way to look at it, considering what the business has turned into. [But] I know those people personally and I know that that would be the last thing that they would do.

Q&A

Missing Pumpkins

Are you in touch with your old Smashing Pumpkins bandmates James Iha, D'Arcy Wretsky and Jimmy Chamberlain?

No, no. That's all so dark and ugly. I'm at the point where I don't want to go into specifics anymore. They put me in a situation where ... they have made it impossible for me to do that. All I can do is shrug and move on. It's hard to say this the right way, and I hope it comes out the right way. There are a lot of fans who really care about them as people. And by cutting me off, they've cut themselves off from their own experience of the Smashing Pumpkins fan base, and that's a shame because they deserve that.

The joys and anguish of 'King Lear'

Even Tony-nominated actors can have a hard time figuring out William Shakespeare ◗ Bill Irwin on tackling The Fool and one of the Bard's greatest plays

When we reached actor Bill Irwin a few weeks ago, he was knee-deep in rehearsals for "King Lear," which begins previews tomorrow at The Public. When we spoke to Irwin — who plays The Fool opposite Sam Waterston's King Lear — he didn't mince words about how it was going: "It's either the greatest joy, or at other moments, you kind of wonder what you're doing there," he said.

See? Even Tony-nominated actors can admit Shakespeare is a tough slog. "King Lear" may be one of Shakespeare's greatest plays, but that doesn't mean it's any easier to produce. And Irwin's character is especially nuanced.

"Shakespeare's plays are these magical works of art. They are either brilliant masterpieces or these ramshackle, stapled-together things. How they can be both is mind-boggling."
BILL IRWIN

"The Fool is a role that was left out of the play for 200 or 300 years," he explains. "Scholars said, 'Oh, Shakespeare made a mistake [in writing this role].' So they left it out. Now, of course, we feel it's an integral part of the whole tapestry. He's a character who feels like he is there for color and comic relief, but the deeper you go you realize he is part of the psyche of all of the characters."

Irwin had no doubt the cast and crew would pull through — this is The Public, after all; no one in the city does Shakespeare better. "It is such a joy to watch everyone tackle their roles. I wouldn't have it any other way," he said.

Our Aim is to Beat Most Offers!

We Strive to Beat All Legitimate Written Offers

Before Bringing your items to us, take them to other dealers. Have them give you legitimate offers in writing. Then bring your jewelry and written offers to one of our locations. Although no one can guarantee with certainty they are paying the highest price for an article at any particular time, we will strive to beat most legitimate written offers.

Why We Can Usually Pay More Than Other Dealers

Most jewelers and dealers specialize in few items and focus on newer looking items to resell. Because they are unfamiliar with many other items including vintage jewelry, old watches, coins, flatware, etc. they tend to offer very low prices because these items are not readily saleable for them. Our company has many specialized buyers for the various classifications of items that we purchase, therefore we can usually pay more.

A Note Regarding the Up To Prices listed in this Ad

The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Customer Satisfaction

Most of our business comes from satisfied customers and referrals which includes their friends and families. Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

Help the Environment

Using recycled precious metals for jewelry is an important way for jewelers to source precious metals more responsibly. Precious metals that have already been used in some way, including "vintage," "renewed," or "reclaimed" metals from jewelry and electronics, are not directly implicated in the destructive impacts of mining. They do not share responsibility for the impacts of mining in the same way that newly mined gold does.

'It's really fun to see women kicking ass'

Mary Elizabeth Winstead would know ◗ She's on the attack in a prequel to 'The Thing' ◗ Why she enjoyed starring in a film that's set in Antarctica

With titles like "Final Destination 3," "The Ring Two" and "Black Christmas" in her filmography, actress Mary Elizabeth Winstead is no stranger to onscreen horror. So a prequel to "The Thing" was right up her alley. Plus, the Antarctic setting didn't allow for much in the way of revealing costumes, which is something Winstead says she appreciated. She shares with Metro her rather frank opinions on the topic, as well as her unique connection to the star of the original 1982 "The Thing."

How did you feel about this being a prequel as opposed to a remake?
Knowing that it was from Strike Entertainment, it was sort of a clue that these were the kind of people — from their past work like "Dawn of the Dead" — [who] have a grasp on how to take material and make something new out of it that's still respectful and interesting and not just a retread that's more modern and more schlocky than the first one that came around.

And then there's the title. They're both "The Thing."
Yeah, I know. I've read interviews with [Strike] where they're basically like, "We just couldn't win. Basically, any title we came up with just sounded stupid no matter what we tried, and so we just stuck with 'The Thing,' you know?"

Comparisons to Sigourney Weaver's character in "Alien" is almost inevitable here.
I love them. I have a particular fondness for strong women onscreen who are also realistic. Like, it's really fun to see women kicking ass and being super-powerful; but at the same time, I feel like there's this niche that we don't see of women who are just realistically strong and smart and take care of themselves but aren't, like, beating up guys twice their size and knocking them out — things that just wouldn't happen in the real world.

It's interesting that filmmakers seem to think female characters have to be at one end of the spectrum or the other.
Every female character in a movie is over-sexualized or she's played as shrill and neurotic or something that's a very male perspective. ... We're seeing something very much made for the male gaze and made to make the male audience happy.

Well, you wear a parka for most of this movie.
Yeah, I know, it was awesome! I didn't have to wear any makeup, and every day I would come to work and [director] Matthijs [van Heijningen] would look at me and be like, "Make her look worse!" I liked it.

Q&A

You tangled with Kurt Russell in "Sky High," you sang with him in "Death Proof" and now you're in the prequel to his film.
I know! I'm always following Kurt Russell, for some reason.

Has he seen this yet?
I have no idea. I mean, he's so not a show business-type guy. ... I wouldn't be surprised if he didn't know that this exists. He probably in passing has heard about it, but I doubt he's worrying about it too much.

High-profile jobs not as desirable as they seem

Doctors, executives, airline pilots and some of their prestigious peers don't have it as good as you think ◗ Why these might be overrated careers

LIFESIZE

▶ Surgeons earn an average of $365,258 a year, but there's never an easy day at the office — especially in 2011.

While they make for great cocktail conversation, some of the most prestigious careers aren't quite as enviable as they seem, according to a new report from job search portal CareerCast.com.

"There's a lot of perceptions out there about what a good job is, and a lot of the times the perception is wrong," says Career Cast publisher Tony Lee. "Yes, these do pay a lot, but there are a lot of drawbacks to these jobs. We looked at things like stress, work/family balances, the hiring outlook down the road and compensation."

Career Cast's list includes some of the usual suspects in a struggling economy (stock brokers, real estate agents) as well as plenty of health care professionals.

We asked Lee for some background on those that topped the list.

MONICA WEYMOUTH
monica.weymouth@metro.us

Surgeon, physician, psychiatrist

Average incomes: $365,258; $192,065; $160,242

"What these all have in common is that they're responsible for people's lives. People are reliant on them, and that has always been stressful," says Lee. "But more recently, with government regulations and more paperwork, it's just not the case anymore that you can play golf on Wednesdays and pay back your loans."

Senior corporate executive

Average income: $160,141

While some high-ranking execs are undoubtedly dismissive of the Occupy gang, others are feeling the heat — albeit in swanky corner offices. "Senior corporate executives are under extreme pressure right now. You have falling profits, you have shareholder pressure," says Lee. "You look at the protests and you think, 'These people don't care.' But a lot of them do care — they don't want to do layoffs, and they're working more hours than ever."

Commercial airline pilot, flight attendant

Average incomes: $106,153; $40,184

As fuel prices rise and airlines cut back on staff, passengers aren't the only ones who are less comfortable. "The reality is the hours are at their highest that they've ever been, you have less control over your days and pay has not risen," says Lee. Something to keep in mind when you're watching "Pan Am" — or getting ready to grumble about the skimpy bag of pretzels on your next flight.

Greening up the office

You recycle at home, so what's the deal with tossing that giant stack of paper on the copier tray in the trash? How you can leave a softer environmental footprint at the office

At home, most of us wouldn't think about leaving the air-conditioner on full blast while leaving town for a couple days. Or tossing a luncheon's worth of plastic bottles directly in the trash. Or using individually packaged creamers for a cup of coffee from a massive pot we'll never finish.

And yet in the office, these are common practices even among those who consider themselves environmentally friendly. In their new book, "The Complete Idiot's Guide to Greening Your Business," co-authors Trish Riley and Heather Gadonniex look at companies' most wasteful policies, as well as practical solutions — of which, Riley points out, there are many.

"Solutions are happening just as fast as the problems are — and people don't realize that, they think we're just sunk," she says. "And sure, we're not going to save the planet unless big businesses get on board, but what's cool is that big businesses are getting on board. They're doing these things to meet consumer needs — because they know this is what we want."

One of the companies profiled in the book, Clif Bar, goes far beyond the usual recycling bins, offering incentives for employees who drive hybrid cars and take public transportation to work in addition to offering flexible telecommuting options to further reduce fuel usage. While these perks end up costing an employer a little extra, they contribute to something almost priceless: The perception that they care.

"Money talks," admits Riley. "But when they show their customers that money is not the most important thing, that they care about our environment and the future of it, that goes a long way — especially with consumers with children."

Quoted

"We're not going to save the planet unless big businesses get on board, but what's cool is that big businesses are getting on board. They're doing these things to meet consumer needs — because they know this is what we want."

STOCKBYTE

▶ Desk-side recycling bins make it easy to do the right thing.

What can you do?

Riley's recommendations for a greener office:

1 Don't simply turn off your computer at night — unplug it. The machines use a small amount of "phantom energy" when plugged in, hence the subtle glow and eerie hum of a room full of computers that are seemingly off.

STOCKBYTE

▶ Empty conference rooms aren't afraid of the dark.

2 Establish an office compost bin in the kitchen in addition to the now-standard recycling bins.

3 Make sure lights are off and that heating and cooling systems are adjusted for hours when the office is empty.

4 Create a greening committee. "When an office decides they want to do something like this, they have to create a team of people across the spectrum who makes sure that everyone, top to bottom, understands."

5 Smart jobs for college students

Looking to make more than a little extra cash? These part-time gigs can earn you some real money

DIGITAL VISION

Certified personal trainers can earn more than $20 per hour.

Whether you're just looking for some extra party cash or trying to make ends meet with tuition, the college job is vital to survival for a number of students. While there are many part-time options, some can prove to be more lucrative than others. Here are five of the most well-paying jobs to have while you're in school, plus stats on what you could earn, according to Indeed.com.

Restaurant server/bartender

Whether you're waiting tables at the classiest joint in town or slinging drinks at everybody's favorite dive bar, the cash potential is endless. If you're good at your job and know how to up-sell, you could be raking in hundreds of dollars per night. Sometimes, the best way to land one of these jobs is by being a regular first. (The friendly, chatty kind of regular, not the intoxicated, mouthy regular who gets thrown out.)

Administrative assistant

For this job, you can venture to businesses both on- or off-campus. On-campus offices are probably more apt to hiring students and off-campus businesses can appreciate the savvy Web and organizational skills of the modern college student. You might rake in as much as $15,000 a year. A polished resume and an in-person visit is the best way to land one of these jobs.

Web designer

Today's college students are more tech-savvy than any previous generation. Take advantage of the skills you have, because employers are desperately searching for qualified people. If you have already designed a site, market it through social networking. Post an ad for your services on job sites and Craigslist. Drop in to small businesses and speak with them about how a website might be able to boost revenue.

Hotel clerk

This type of job will look great on a resume and even give you a head start on your career if you plan to go into management or hospitality. To get this job, show up looking sharp with a big smile and a professional resume highlighting anything you've done that deals with people or service. The hourly wage will vary from place to place, but you could be making as much as $15,000 per year if you work 20 hours per week.

Get this gig!

Personal Trainer
You get to make your own hours, plus your time at work doubles as your work out. You'll have to shell out some cash to get your certification, but you could be making upward of $20 an hour! Not bad for a part-time job. Once you get certified, market yourself through Facebook and Twitter, and never underestimate the power of a business card.

Campuses, hip-hop support each other

Underground hip-hop scenes can thrive with help from the resources of colleges ◗ Emery Petchauer on the benefit to students, artists and schools

Around 1990, Emery Petchauer was exposed to De La Soul and A Tribe Called Quest. His life would never be the same.

Now — after 20 years spent in various hip-hop scenes as an artist, organizer and scholar — Dr. Petchauer has completed his first book examining the culture of hip-hop on college campuses. "Hip-Hop Culture in College Students' Lives: Elements, Embodiment, and Higher Edutainment" will be released by Routledge Books this month.

"There's been a lot of talk about hip-hop in education for a while, but most of the time it's focused on how teachers use rap music in order to teach," says Petchauer, who is currently a professor at Lincoln University in Philadelphia. "I wanted to look at the creative spaces where people create hip-hop and develop habits of body, habits of mind — and how they take those habits into educational environments. It's a way to conceptualize and understand their education."

"Hip-hop has a tendency to co-opt the power of larger institutions in society and appropriate them for a different use."
PETCHAUER

Based on Petchauer's doctoral thesis, "Hip-Hop Culture" examines the largely underground hip-hop scenes at three anonymous U.S. colleges located in Southern California, the Northeast and the South.

"I wasn't focusing on students that just listened to hip-hop. I was interested in the kids that create and sustain hip-hop culture — these are MCs, dancers, DJs, graffiti writers and event organizers," explains Petchauer. "Hip-hop has a tendency to co-opt the power of larger institutions in society and appropriate them for a different use. There's an incredible amount of resources on college campuses that people involved with hip-hop can use to their advantage. College radio and rehearsal spaces have had this core relationship with hip-hop from the beginning."

Erudite critic: OWS analysis

A social, psychological and political analysis of the ongoing Occupy Wall Street movement demonstrates the theories of anarchism in their respective lack of a thorough analysis of American society. The OWS protesters criticize the corporative status quo and the military as instruments of American foreign policy, and have neither a nascent political party nor a platform of principles or demands necessary for concrete political and economic reform. JOSEPH N. MANAGO, BRIARWOOD

In space, no one to sell to

RE: "WE'D BE WILLING TO LEAVE": When he fantasizes about the "1 percent" leaving us to colonize another planet and taking medical science, iPods and sporting venues with them, Jesse Aldous suggests that some of the top 1 percent aren't as bright as they think. Who they will be selling gadgets, medical care and sports tickets to up there — themselves? The "1 percent" need the "99 percent" a lot more then we need them. In fact, some of us will be happy to help build your spaceships for you — at least you will have finally created some jobs. ROBERT TROMBETTA, VIA E-MAIL

End it: It's the jobs, stupid!

You want to put an end to this protest? Wall Street was bailed out by the tax payers of these here United States, and every large institution should repay the citizens by offering full-time jobs. There's no way around this: Job creation is what we need, otherwise, this will continue with no end in sight; these folks have nothing better to do. JIMMY CORREA, VIA E-MAIL

This protest really stinks

It's time to stand up and demand the police put an end to OWS. They have become nothing more than a bunch of bums hangin' out in a shantytown that the taxpayers are paying to maintain. I say let them sleep in their own feces — they seem to be comfortable with that. MICHAEL CHIMENTI, OAKLAND GARDENS

Occupy Wall Street stinks to high heaven. There is the smell of bundled mortgages, the smell of corporate welfare, the smell of foreclosure; the smell of tax breaks for the wealthy, of irrelevant elections, of pepper spray ... but the most disturbing smell is that of those standing up and screaming loudly, "Enough is enough!" SUZY SANDOR, NEW YORK

Giants come out on top against Cinderalla Buffalo Bradshaw runs for three touchdowns Tynes kicks winning field goal after Webster pick

The Giants have a way of making things interesting this season. Sunday was no different in a thrilling 27-24 win over the Bills.

Big Blue flawlessly executed a bend-but-don't-break defense to corral the high-tempo Buffalo offense, while the offense used all of its passing resources to counter their often-anemic run game.

Veteran corner Corey Webster played lockdown defense on Buffalo's No. 1 option, wideout Stevie Johnson. His second pick of Ryan Fitzpatrick came with 4:02 remaining and Buffalo driving, to ignite the eventual game-winning drive.

Lawrence Tynes capped it off with a go-ahead 23-yard field goal with 1:32 remaining. The drive went 76 yards in nine plays, spanning 2:30.

"It's great because the way things have been going it has been tough sledding," left guard David Diehl said. "Heading into this game we knew what we had to do. We knew we had to get the running game going. It's a credit to everyone … it's an awesome feeling [to get to 4-2]."

TONY WILLIAMS

"We worked hard all week and were successful because of that."
RB AHMAD BRADSHAW, ON HIS OFFENSIVE LINE

Three things …

1 The Mann: Eli Manning continued to post big numbers, as he went 21-of-32 for 292 yards passing. Manning played near-flawless football in leading an efficient passing attack. Whatever deficiencies there were in Big Blue's running game, Manning and his receiving corps made up for it.

2 Slow start, big finish: Aside from Fred Jackson's 80-yard touchdown run and Naaman Roosevelt's 60-yard touchdown reception — both coming in the first quarter — the Giants held strong on defense. New York held Jackson to 41 yards on his remaining carries and there wasn't a Bills receiver who had more than 62 receiving yards.

3 Deep Blue: The Giants' depth has been tested all season, but Sunday's game showed how well they're stocked. Right guard Chris Snee missed his first game in seven years with a concussion, but backup Kevin Boothe filled in admirably as he held Bills' first-round pick Marcel Dareus to pedestrian numbers (three tackles and one assist). Jason Pierre-Paul also continued to excel in taking over for Justin Tuck in the starting lineup. METRO/TW

Defense finally steps up

The Giants knew going into the game their biggest task would be stopping Ryan Fitzpatrick, Fred Jackson and the high-powered Bills offense.

It didn't look good after the first quarter. Jackson made the defense look silly on an 80-yard touchdown run, while a few minutes later Fitzpatrick completed a 60-yard touchdown pass to Naaman Roosevelt.

It got better from there. The Giants' defense sacked Fitzpatrick three times and didn't allow a 100-yard receiver.

Pierre-Paul has 7.5 sacks this season, which is second in the NFL to Minnesota's Jason Allen. He had 4.5 all of last year.

It was a total team effort, said defensive end Jason Pierre-Paul, who had a sack.

"We had to put pressure on him," he said. "He's a quick pass guy so we had to come up with a game plan to put pressure on him and make him move out of the pocket. We also practiced all week on getting our hands up and that's what I did in the last minute when I knocked the ball down."

Former Knicks power forward Charles Oakley isn't too happy with the current team — and he wasn't afraid to say it. Oakley let loose on Amar'e Stoudemire, Mike D'Antoni and said "they've got hype. But hype don't win nothing." Oak can still trash talk. METRO

Distractions helping Jets

First there was the finger-pointing, then the blame game and finally the trade.

It can all benefit the Jets tonight in their divisional matchup at MetLife Stadium against the Dolphins by taking their mind off their losing streak.

It has been a crazy two weeks for the Jets, who are faced with the tall task of not only righting their 2-3 ship after a loss to archrival New England, while dealing with a locker room ready to splinter.

"Well, it's funny, because [we've] been criticized two years in a row; we have gone to the AFC Championship Game. I understand we have not won it, but there are a lot of teams that will sign up for that," head coach Rex Ryan said. "So we must be doing something right."

The attention now turns to Miami, a 0-4 team that Ryan called a "caged animal," because their talented personnel does not match up to their winless record.

"It's been a good week," LaDainian Tomlinson said. "I think one thing we all understand is when you're in this business, anything can happen. So we put our heads down this week, and we're trying to get one win."

Storylines to watch

Week 6: New York Jets vs. Dolphins, MetLife Stadium
When: 8:30 p.m., ESPN What's next: vs. San Diego

1 Doing a pretty Schotty job

Under criticism all year, offensive coordinator Brian Schottenheimer must be faulted for the inability of the team to establish the run and effectively move the ball down the field.

The offense is middling and boasts just a 33 percent success rate on third down — ninth worst in the league.

Schottenheimer can't be faulted for what happened last game, however, when the Jets had several bad drops that could have extended drives.

The inability of the Jets to sustain drives and convert third downs is a big reason why they're No. 26 in time of possession.

2 Discord in the wide receiver ranks

The trade that sent veteran wide receiver Derrick Mason to Houston last week is an interesting move, perhaps designed to shake things up in the locker room.

Mason complained about the offense two weeks ago and had failed to be the impact player the Jets had hoped for when he signed a free agent deal in August.

How will the Jets respond if they go down early or if there is a setback in the game? Will they splinter or find their backbone?

3 Brandon Marshall a marked man

Dolphins Pro Bowl wide receiver Brandon Marshall pulled no punches this week, saying he was going to play like "a maniac" on Monday night.

Marshall went so far as to say he was going to get thrown out by the second quarter and might punch Jets players Antonio Cromartie or Bart Scott.

The Jets could send Marshall a message with aggressive play to bait him into a dumb move. Dolphins head coach Tony Sparano said Marshall was trying to rally his team. METRO/KD

20.6
The Jets are averaging 20.6 points per game in their current three-game losing streak. They average almost 30 in wins.

There are six players on the Jets — including the now gone Derrick Mason — with double-digit catches, but no one with more than 20.

3.3
Shonn Greene, the team's leading rusher, is averaging just 3.3 yards per carry. Last year, he averaged 4.1 yards per carry.

13
Mark Sanchez has been sacked 13 times this season. That is tied for ninth in the NFL. Sanchez has also fumbled six times.

It wasn't pretty — Pittsburgh had zero points in the second half — but the Steelers improved to 4-2 against the Jaguars. Rashard Mendenhall was a workhorse, carrying the ball 24 times for 146 yards and a touchdown. The Steelers' defense combined for five sacks. METRO

Patriots rally to beat 'Boys

No one would call the Patriots' victory over the Cowboys pretty, but it counts all the same.

Tom Brady threw a touchdown pass to tight end Aaron Hernandez with 22 seconds remaining to give New England the 20-16 win.

The Cowboys had scored all six points of the second half to take a 16-13 lead with five minutes remaining before Brady drove for the win.

Browns come up just short

The Browns executed the perfect onside kick. Their offense couldn't do the same.

The Raiders won 24-17 after forcing a Colt McCoy incompletion on fourth down with 40 seconds left.

The Raiders lost Jason Campbell to an injured collarbone.

Wheldon dies in Indy car accident

Two-time Indianapolis 500 champ Dan Wheldon died yesterday after a horrific crash in the opening laps of the Las Vegas Indy 300.

The English driver, 33, was caught in a fiery 15-car pileup at Las Vegas Motor Speedway. He was flown by helicopter to a nearby hospital but succumbed to "unsurvivable injuries," IndyCar Series CEO Randy Bernard said in a statement.

"Our thoughts and prayers are with his family today," Bernard said.

Too young

Wheldon was just 33 years old when he died.

He is survived by his wife, Susie, and their two young sons.

Wheldon won the 2005 Indy Racing League title, as well as the '05 and '11 Indianapolis 500s.

The race was canceled immediately after the accident, but drivers returned to the track for an emotional five-lap tribute with Wheldon's fellow British driver, Dario Franchitti, sobbing uncontrollably as he was strapped back into his car.

Wheldon moved to the U.S. after winning eight British titles in karting and then finishing third in the 1998 Formula Ford championship. METRO/REUTERS

Tired of Obstructive Sleep Apnea?

For millions of adults like you, obstructive sleep apnea (OSA) is a daily struggle, robbing you of the deep restful sleep you need to get through your day. Untreated OSA is also associated with an increased risk of death and serious health conditions, including high blood pressure, coronary artery disease, diabetes, and stroke.

Right now, sleep specialists at Clinilabs in Manhattan are conducting a research study of an investigational device for obstructive sleep apnea that may help. If you have OSA, and haven't had lasting success with CPAP or other treatments, this study may be right for you.

ACNE

Eczema Psoriasis Rosacea Rashes

#60

Guaranteed better than all others they used say dozens of delighted users with full names and towns on the Bell website. Works by cleansing blood inside rather than attacking skin from the outside and leaving the actual cause untreated. Here are a few examples:

By Dr. C. Hammoud Ph.D.

■ I had terrible Acne for 3 years and tried products with Benzoyl Peroxide, Aloe Vera and others. After 4 days taking the Bell natural product #60 it started to clear up my skin. My skin changed from terrible to beautiful. Mylene Theriault, 19, Sorel-Tracy, QC ■ In 2 days my son's face completely cleared up of acne. My son is 15 and suffered for 3 years. We used many products like laser, Neem that did not work or burned his skin. Veronica Marden, Seminole, TX ■ Unbelievable acne free beautiful skin Last couple of years I had acne and tried every product and antibiotics. Results with #60 were unbelievable. Thanks for giving me beautiful skin and my self-esteem. Nelisa Royer, 28, Doral, FL ■ Within 6 days eczema cleared up completely. I believe #60 addresses the cause internally instead of the symptoms. Latifa Boutshik, 43, North York, ON ■ I had severe psoriasis over 95% of my body. Last 5 years I have stunned every doctor and dermatologist. I spent tons of money on remedies. After I got Bell #60, I've never seen anything work as fast in my life. Within 2 days I saw my skin clearing up. I'm speechless. It was inexpensive compared with what I spent before. Jessica Shantz, 25, Dawson Creek, BC ■ All statements made on the Bell website are sent by delighted users. All are real people. Most have listed phone numbers and can be called for advice. No money is paid to them. Their reward is the relief they are getting. All say #60 works within days not months, not years. It's more effective than what they used before. It is less expensive (some acne suppliers ship monthly and charge monthly, which may amount to large sums yearly). No side effects were reported on #60. TRUE EVIDENCE that we are helping people.

High Blood Pressure?

High blood pressure is called the silent killer. If your BP is higher than normal, try to get it down to about 120/80. For many people it is easy to control. If it does not work for you we refund your money. On our website you will find over 50 testimonials with full names and towns from all over USA and Canada. Most of them have listed phone numbers and are happy to talk about the relief they had. No money was paid for testimonials.

#26

Dr. C. Hammoud M.H., Ph.D. recommends this effective fish peptide blood pressure natural product. So does Dr. Julian Whitaker M.D. ■ I was on 3 blood pressure drugs that did not work well. After starting Bell #26 my readings are generally well below 120/80. Dona A. Anderson, 76, Sooke, BC ■ My blood pressure was 157/90 and I had side effects from prescription drugs. I bought a monitor. After 6 months on Bell #26 I was down to 120/80. Toni L. McCuistion, 52, Elizabethtown, PA ■ At work my driver's medical test was too high at 170/100. After taking Bell #26 for a few days I went down to 128/84 which allowed me to pass my work medical. Kris Geier, 48, Windsor, ON. Bell is helping people everywhere.

In other towns try your local health food stores first. If they don't have it and don't want to order it for you. Order on our website or call us with Visa or Mastercard. S & H $9.95.

SNORING? SLEEP APNEA?

#23

Most older men and many women snore and have sleep apnea (gasping for air) :

To my surprise, after taking Bell Snoring & Sleep Apnea Relief #23 I really didn't snore or gasp for air anymore. I sleep through the night and feel rested and refreshed in the morning. Mark Wilson, 40, Hudson, NH ■ Sleep apnea capsules worked first night! For last 15 years I had sleep apnea and my doctor made me buy a CPAP machine, which I could not use. Finally Bell #23 helped the first night and every night thereafter. Like a miracle. Unbelievable. Karen Braun, 67, Glace Bay, NS ■ For 20 years I was waking up frequently gasping for air. During the day I would start napping every time I would sit down, because I was tired. Since taking Bell #23 sleeping 6 hours is heaven. It made a substantial change in my life. Mary C. Myrick, 62, Jackson, MS ■ It is such a joy not having to use the CPAP machine. I have had sleep apnea for 10 years. I was skeptical about Bell Snoring & Sleep Apnea Eze #23. After using it for 3 weeks my wife says there is no more snoring or gasping for breath or stoppage of breathing. It is such a joy to be able to roll to left or right with no hose or mask to deal with and can get up with no restrictions. Thank you Bell for a great relief. I suggest anyone with these problems to try it. You will be overjoyed with the results. Wayne Burse, 63, Beamsville, ON Bell is helping people everywhere.

Cholesterol Control

■ Cholesterol and triglycerides under control! For the last 5-6 years I have been told that my cholesterol and triglycerides were out of line. After taking Bell Cholesterol Control #14 my doctor said he was amazed about the change. This is a good product. Jerome Nettles, 51, Monroeville, AL ■ All statin drugs gave me pain! My doctor tried them all on me. So he said to try a natural product. After taking Bell Cholesterol Control #14 I have no more pain. I'm so happy about this. Deanna O'Neil, 63, Tecumseh, ON. ■ I had great success with all Bell health products! In the last 2 years I had relief with Bell Prostate Ezee Flow Tea, HDL Cholesterol Management, Blood Pressure Combo and Stem Cell Activator. I love your products. They all work for me. Great results. That's all that matters. Basil Richards, 49, S.W. Ranches, FL ■ 20 years of high cholesterol alleviated! I had high cholesterol for 20 years and drugs didn't agree with me. After taking Bell Cholesterol Control #14 for 6 months I had a check-up and was surprised about the big improvement. I was delighted and extremely happy and so was my doctor. Norma Hrysio, 65, Lac Du Bonnet, MB. We supply TRUE EVIDENCE.
